EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Since the founding of this country, the United States have had special relationships with Native American Indian people. Despite these special relationships or maybe as a result of the special relationships, Indian peoples have been historically the most exploited, deprived, and oppressed peoples of this country. Indians were once the dominant majority of people on this continent, today. However, Indian peoples are the most economically depressed and disadvantaged minority in America and the 2000 Census shows that Native Americans represent the smallest segment of business owners and entrepreneurs in the nation. Native American Jobs, Inc. is dedicated to increasing individual Indian and tribal commercial participation in American business through uniting tribal, federal, state, Indian and non-Indian business resources.

MISSION

Native American Jobs is purposed with providing an online job data bank available to Native American Job Seekers, Native American Tribes, Tribal Organizations and Casinos. More specifically this Company will provide unlimited job posting FREE of charge to all Educational facilities located within the boundaries of a reservation or who's enrolment is primarily Native American's. Any Educational facility outside of the reservation boundaries duly recommended by the Tribal Council, will receive said services. Tribal College's and/or Universities will be granted FREE Access regardless of there locations. All Educational Institutions will be provided with an HR Assistant Plug-in that is installed directly on their respective web sites.

PRESS RELEASE

For immediate release: Tues 7/13/10

NativeAmerican.Jobs (NAJ) was created on the belief that every tribal member should have the ability to look for and find employment in one central location. NativeAmerican.Jobs replaces the first job portal ndianjobs.com. Native American Jobs, LLC, is governed by a board of directors and has received 501c3 recognition.

The mission and vision of NAJ are clear and defined. Following is a brief description of NAJ's business concept.

NativeAmerican.Jobs (NAJ) is an online web portal that provides a location for employers to post jobs and for job seekers to find jobs. NAJ was started with the thought that rather than tribal members having to apply at several different locations for jobs, NativeAmerican.Jobs would provide a one-stop shop, thereby eliminating the need to apply more than once. As equally important, the site acts as a clearinghouse for jobs located within Indian Country.

NativeAmerican.Jobs provides the ability for tribal members to search for available employment within their degree of expertise. This is a valuable tool for those looking for part time work while attending a college or university. As Native Americans relocate, often to other reservations, NAJ allows them the ability to find and secure employment prior to moving.

For employers, this site provides the ability to find highly qualified employees that are enrolled members of tribes throughout the nation. Additionally, NativeAmerican.Jobs provides an easily accessible pipeline to major corporations with aggressive Affirmative Action plans to assist them in achieving their hiring goals.

More than just a job search engine, NativeAmerican.Jobs comes with a web site plug-in meaning that all jobs can be advertised on the respective web site of a college, university or tribe. This system acts as an "HR Assistant" maintaining an entire database for their utilization. The directorship of Native American Jobs, Inc., saw and felt the need for tribal members attending off-reservation schools to be able to find jobs not only upon degree completion but during their breaks. Thus, the directorship made the decision to make this web portal FREE for institutions of higher learning and their students. The portal is also free for all educational facilities located on or near a reservation. There are no restrictions however it is preferred that they be located on or near lands represented by Tribal Council or where the majority of the enrollment is largely Native American.
