SAVORY SELECTIONS

Anchorage's culinary scene sizzles, so grab a fork and dig in! Restaurants serve up tantalizing tastes that will please any palate. Dishes draw on fresh Alaska ingredients, but also incorporate cuisines from around the globe. Anchorage is the perfect place to enjoy an array of flavors amid an Alaska journey.

Start the day sunny-side up, fuel a day's travels, celebrate with an unforgettable dinner or enjoy sweet desserts. Just steps from Alaska waters and just down the road from fertile Matanuska Valley farms, Anchorage chefs delight in presenting Alaska's wild-caught seafood and locally grown produce. If it's a hankering for halibut or a craving for crab, local restauranteurs provide an unequaled feast from Alaska waters. Whether ensconced with a magnificent view of the mountains, cuddling in a cozy cafe, sipping a marvelous martini, imbibing a local microbrew or grabbing a reindeer hot dog to go, Anchorage offers options to fit every taste and budget. Bon appétit!

EYE-OPENING ANCHORAGE

From drive-up huts to quaint cafes, the coffee culture is alive and well in Anchorage. The city leads the nation in coffee spots per capita, with nearly three per 10,000 people. Whether Americano, latte, breve or chai, you can get your fix any way you want it.

WHAT'S BREWING?

Alaska has one of the highest concentrations of craft brewers per capita in the nation. Anchorage also has half-a-dozen breweries and many spots to sample suds from across the state and beyond. From Gold Rush Golden Ale to Arctic Rhino Coffee Porter, local hangouts and restaurants offer up cold ones that run the spectrum. Get in the "spirit" with vodka and whiskey from Alaska distilleries. You'll find plenty to toast.

CRAFT BEER MEETS CRAFT FOOD AT 49TH STATE BREWING

Company. This year, 49th State brings recipes perfected in the shadow of Denali at their Healy outfit to new digs: an Anchorage brewpub.

They put their soul into beer and the best of Alaska into their menu. House-made hefeweizen, inspired IPAs and peerless pilsners flow from the taps. They're not flowing very far either; beer is brewed on site. And it's hard to go wrong when your first brewing ingredient is water from a glacier. Known for sourcing Alaska meats and produce, the menu is perfect for a filling meal, light lunch or snack to balance what's in the glass.

Sip a Solstice IPA, soak in the sun and take in the view. On a clear day you can see Denali from their gorgeous deck. The deck's been a draw for decades, and with the new brew crew, there's plenty to toast in this recent incarnation.

stands alone. Spanning one of Alaska's most popular sport fisheries, Ship Creek, Bridge's connection to locally caught salmon is readily apparent. Open seasonally from the day after Memorial Day to Aug. 31, guests dine on fresh Alaska seafood as anglers cast for their own dinner in the waters of the downtown creek below.

All dinner entrees begin with a trip to the all-you-can-eat starter bar, featuring Bering Sea crab and an assortment of house-made salads. An extensive appetizer list includes: fresh Alaska oysters, king crab cakes, ale-battered halibut and more. The wide variety ensures your meal is always fresh. Pair any selection with a local microbrew or fine wine. With produce fresh from the Matanuska Valley and desserts rounding out the menu, not all the selections are from the sea, but all are equally delicious.

FAT PTARMIGAN PASSIONATELY PURSUES THE BEST PIZZA.

From a wood-fired oven at the center of the restaurant, house-made mozzarella and specialty ingredients come together atop a crisp, golden crust.

The pizza menu incorporates classics and packs in some surprises as well. From the simple, cheesy goodness of a Margherita to the spicy Hot Coppa or Pepperoni pies, purists will be pleased. And brilliant creations like the Beer Cheese pizza – topped with reindeer sausage and beer cheese sauce – or the Steak & Stilton – New York strip and blue cheese – entice the adventurous.

Fresh ingredients and hearty eats don't just come in slices; the Meatball Sandwich, Creamy Pesto or Caprese salads are just a few of the delectable options on offer. Split a plate of cannoli or a cup of gelato to complete the meal.

FLATTOP PIZZA + POOL TAKES THE NAME OF ANCHORAGE'S

most popular hike and puts a little English on it. Their spin on the pizzeria gets help from three felted, slate-top pool tables, and there's just as much to entertain on the dinner table as well.

Pepperoni rolls and big salads compliment specialty pizzas like the meat-tacular Powerline Pass or much healthier-sounding Trailhead, made with hummus and roasted vegetables. You can also build your own classic or deep-dish pie from five cheeses, eight meats and 16 veggies. Talk about options!

The ice cream sandwich beats any store-bought treat, with rich vanilla ice cream smooshed between two honest-to-goodness brownies. Pizzas by the slice, a full bar, plenty of sports and live music, and by-the-hour pool table rentals mean Flattop is always game for a good time.

THE NAMES OF EXPLORERS FEATURE PROMINENTLY IN

Anchorage. Captain James Cook's name graces the body of water flanking the coast of the city and one of the city's finest hotels. Even Cook's cohorts gained a level of fame; Fletcher Christian may be best known for the mutiny on the Bounty, but in Anchorage his name is now synonymous with great food in a relaxed atmosphere. Fletcher's restaurant offers smart appetizers, gourmet pizzas and hearty dishes that would quell any uprising.

Unwind in the welcoming warmth of an English-style pub. KINLEY'S BLENDS THE RUSTIC AND THE CONTEMPORARY CHARMS of Alaska with exceptional food, adding modern moves to dishes that put the state on the culinary map. Fresh halibut gets a sweet twist, served almond crusted with a cherry apple cider beurre blanc.

The space exudes the same artful but instantly approachable style infused into each dish on the menu. From the warm, worn look of the espresso-stained bar to the wood floors of the dining room, Kinley's is the perfect place to enjoy Alaska's favorite foods in a whole new way.

Kinley's devotes as much thought to what is in your glass as to what goes on the plate. The restaurant has an extensive beer and wine list and regularly hosts events showcasing perfect matchups of brewer and plate or vintner and dish.

comfort food with a contemporary twist. Find crisp produce from the Matanuska Valley and fresh Alaska seafood featured in wonderful entrees. Prosciutto Fig Pizza, Super Tots and Quinoa Salad are just a few of the favorites at midtown's hippest haunt. Get your fingers sticky with an old fashioned S'more for dessert.

How about a highball? The Roadhouse specializes in craft cocktails, small batch bourbons and house-infused vodkas. The Roadhouse Bloody Mary is a favorite among brunch goers; the bravest enjoy it with ghost chili-infused vodka. They also offer a host of local beers on draft as well as a unique selection of canned craft brews.

THE LEGENDARY TIBETAN PARADISE SHAMBALA, IDEALIZED

by novelist James Hilton as Shangri-la, has come to symbolize a mysterious, unobtainable paradise. One bite of the specialties served up at Yak and Yeti and you might just think you've stumbled into the fabled lost valley. Simple ingredients and delicious spices come together for some of the best Indian food in Anchorage. House-made chutneys, intensely spiced meats and flavorful curries fill the dining room with exotic aromas from a world away. Enjoy dishes like Chicken Tikka Masala or branch out with Kalimpong Shapta, a traditional Tibetan stir fry.

Taste the adventure in every meticulously crafted plate. And don't forget to savor the delicious housemade Chai tea. After a meal here, you'll be forgiven for mistaking the surrounding Alaska mountains for Himalayan peaks.

THIS LAKEFRONT AREA HAS DRAWN ALASKANS LOOKING FOR a good time since before the neighborhood was even part of the city. Joe Spenard's dancehall was the hot spot in the 1910s, and the famous Fly By Night Club kept 'em coming in the '70s. Modern day fun-seekers can still head to Spenard for good times; now the Fancy Moose lounge is the place to be.

Classic food favorites are complemented by some surprises bound to satisfy. Go for the crispy fried calamari, crab cakes or fish & chips. Or savor a house-made beef, bison or reindeer burger. Entertainment is on the menu too; TNT Pub Night brings live music to the lakefront hangout four nights a week. Drink specials and a rotating roster of beers provide a good mix. Soak up the sun on the waterfront deck, and watch floatplanes zoom off bustling Lake Hood bound for Alaska adventures.

parts comfort food and Continental fare, it all goes together well at South. Sophisticated and always exceptional, the restaurant created an instant classic by pursuing "casual highbrow dining."

Make a selection between fresh, steamed Alaska mussels in bacon and cream sauce, the melted gruyère goodness of Croque Madame, and the complex composition of a Roasted Beet Salad. Spread, share and dip from the amuse menu for charcuterie, kebobs and ceviche. Inspired cocktails and champagne by the glass make South a refreshing departure from the everyday. Gin drinks – poured tableside – delightfully layer juniper, lemon, berry and other flavors.

South's coffeehouse opens early for caffeine and sweet baked goods. Stick around for a brunch menu loaded with Benedicts, sourdough pancakes, corned beef hash and house-made biscuits.

Now Showing in High Definition Blu-Ray

Anchorage entertains with shows sure to surprise and productions to rival those of cities in the Lower 48. Fall through spring, the Alaska Center for the Performing Arts books the best of Broadway and beyond. Locales feature headlining acts ranging from the obscure to the celebrated. Community theatrical performances showcase home-grown talent in cozy venues year-round.

Throughout the year, catch traveling performers, comedy shows and live music at numerous nightclubs, pubs and coffee houses. Celtic, blues, acoustic, R&B and bluegrass, among others, resonate throughout the city where the scene is as diverse as the Alaska landscape.

Entertainment spills into the streets during the long summer days. Locals and visitors alike explore the popular outdoor markets and festivals, eclectic crafts and art fairs are aplenty, and outdoor concerts get your toes tapping and fingers snapping. Under the bright midnight sun, this northern city hosts fun activities that stretch late into the evening.

Sports fans can catch the big game on a personal table TV or one of the many large flat screens while testing their taste buds on five-alarm hot wings. Or drop the remote and pick up some tickets; throughout the year, Anchorage boasts two semi-pro baseball teams, a hard-hitting pro hockey team, club-style boxing and the University of Alaska Anchorage Seawolves.

THE VOICES OF ALASKA'S SOLDIERS, SAILORS, MARINES, airmen and Coast Guardsmen are at the heart of the Alaska Veterans Museum. From the first Anchorage soldiers who marched off to the trenches of Europe after the city's founding in 1915, to the men and women of the Alaska Territorial Guard and on to modern day service members, Alaska is a unique post. In what other military museum would World War II vehicle models include both a sprawling aircraft carrier and a finely crafted dogsled like those used on Alaska patrols after the Pearl Harbor attack? All for only $3.

The uniforms on display range from the garb doughboys donned "Over There" to contemporary Class A uniforms, but also include the seal skin mukluks and animal hide mittens of Major Marston's "Tundra Army." Through these items, intimate snapshots of camp life and the words of individuals serving in Alaska, this small museum shows the huge service and sacrifices of military men and women.

SPREAD ACROSS 200 ACRES IN THE PORTAGE VALLEY, MOOSE

munch through Willow, and a trio of massive brown bears saunter through the brush, cooling off in nearby ponds. The Alaska Wildlife Conservation Center is home to herds of elk, reindeer, musk oxen, bison, eagles, fox, porcupines and other animals. Dedicated to conservation, education and quality animal care of Alaska's wildlife, the center is a window to the many amazing species living in Alaska.

With such huge spaces, animals behave much as they would in the wild. The setting has advantages for human visitors as well; it's a fantastic spot for envy-inducing photos of Alaska wildlife.

Enjoy daily programs that include animal feedings and informative talks on Alaska fauna. See wood bison and learn about their recent reintroduction to the wild, an achivement the center worked toward for many years.

IN THE WOODED FOOTHILLS OF THE CHUGACH MOUNTAINS, the Alaska Zoo puts visitors face-to-face with local animals. With wolves, lynx, wolverines, moose, musk oxen, eagles, reindeer, river otters, seals and many more tucked along forested paths, the Zoo is Alaska's showcase of natural majesty. It's the only place in Alaska to see all three resident species of bear – black, brown and polar – in one visit.

Amur tigers, snow leopards, Tibetan yaks and Bactrian camels are exotic, but the Zoo's special emphasis on animals from the Arctic and sub-Arctic regions means each finds a new home in Alaska.

The Zoo's free shuttle runs all summer from downtown, so getting there is a snap. For a truly unforgettable experience, reserve a unique behind-the-scenes tour for special encounters with the animals and expert insight from the amazing staff. This is furry and feathered fun, Alaska style.

BEAR SQUARE IS ONE CENTER LOADED WITH A WHOLE

lot of fun. Start your Alaska adventure with the chance to hit the mother lode gold panning in the middle of the city. Test your resolve with a virtual hot air balloon ride or reel in the big one on a fishing simulator. Catch a film in the Bear & Raven Adventure Theater; Alaska's natural majesty and wild animal residents are the real stars of the show, but don't be surprised if the special effects put you in the middle of the action!

Even after the credits roll, there's more to see and do. Zip through the surrounding downtown streets; Segway tours of the city depart from Bear Square, so be sure to reserve a spot.

Looking for an icy treat? Cool off and get your licks in with Alaska-made ice cream, a tasty end to a sweet stop at this entertainment hub.

IN SKIING'S EARLY DAYS, AN IMPRESSION MADE IN the snow by a skier falling backward was called a "sitzmark." Small wonder the name is applied here. It's a hip venue at the base of Alaska's premier ski destination. And with great talent on stage, you'll want to plant your butt here a while. A local institution, "The Sitz" has been at the heart of good times in Girdwood for 40 years.

Under the swirling glow of a painted ceiling dubbed the "Sitzstine Chapel," musicians from Alaska and beyond draw crowds of folks unwinding after a day of adventures in the Glacier Valley. Performances could be folk or reggae, hip hop or EDM, but good times transcend all genres. The "sunniest deck in Girdwood" lets guests kick back and enjoy a beverage from a full bar, listen to great live music, and enjoy the view of the surrounding Chugach Mountains.
